Sozopol

City of Salvation

Sozopol is the oldest town on the Black sea coast. It is situated 34 km. south of Bourgas. In the seventh century B.C. Greek colonists named it Apollonia after the ancient Greek god Apollo. Historic monuments such as the gravestone of Anaximander and the bronze statue of Apollo found in Sozopol date back to that period. As a proof of the rich culture of Sozopol history has left numerous archeological artifacts, fortress walls, crypts, municipal buildings and pieces of art that date back to Ancient or Medieval times. The church "St. Mary", which was built in the seventh century, is under the auspices of UNESCO. There is also the chapel "St. Zosim" which dates back to the ninth century. The architecture of the old part of the town is unique with its paved narrow streets and Renaissance style houses with stone ground floor walls, wood staircases and frame and spacious verandas.
